Lee Wok Trinh is an up-and-coming 36 year old television actor, voice actor, and model. Born in America, Lee has worked and lived in Japan before he moved to Singapore. As a result, Lee is fluent in both English and Japanese

Dedicated and creative, Lee has been casted for both local and international projects. His versatility and immersive acting techniques have made him a top choice amongst casting directors. Most recently, Lee has clinched supporting character roles in an upcoming Netflix drama and an upcoming Netflix documentary. Lee is also a talented voice actor and was recently casted as one of the main voices in an upcoming local audio book, Sacred Guardians.

Lee has trained with US-based acting coach, Wendy Farone, and local acting coach, Kamil Haque. He has also attended acting workshops in The Improv Company and Zoom! Academy.
